

16th hole: This par 4 is the second longest on the course and affords very little roll on the tee shot making the hole play even longer. A tee shot down the left side of this dogleg left will shorten the approach shot but players must be sure to avoid the bunker guarding the left side of the fairway. With one of the largest greens on the course, golfers may face a very long putt for birdie and a putt across the green will force the players to contend with a ridge that divides the front and back of the green. Par is a great score on this hole.

Hardest Par 4 on golf course. It is the longest Par 4 from gold tees plus fairway is soft so no roll. Green has more slope than it looks. Just a hard hole.

Scott Groh

A long par 4 that usually plays into the wind. Keep your drive down the left side of the fairway. You'll still have a long second shot. Par is a great score on this hole.

Scott Weaver

A solid tough hole. It plays longer than you think because it's slightly uphill. Also the fairway is very soft so you don't get much runout off the tee. If it is into the wind your short game will probably have to save you.

Robert Jacobson O'Connor

If you wind up on the right side with your tee shot you will have to contend with a tree on the right edge that overhangs the fairway for your approach.

George Munro

A very difficult hole, tree trouble on right side and sand and water on left side. The longest par 4 on course from the gold tees with soft fairway. Good luck.
